QUESTIONS on Project: CALL

Q: When should this training be conducted?

A: For many churches, a special class can be set aside for training during the lesson study period preceding your weekly worship service. Other churches use the mid-week prayer service for training, or organize small training teams in member homes at other times during the week.

Q: How does my church sign up for this?

A: To participate in Project: CALL, please fill out the attached registration form and mail it to our office with the registration fee. To ensure the full support of your Pastor and local church leaders, we recommend this program be approved by your church board.

Q: How much does Project: CALL cost?

A: There cost for Project: CALL, and access to our online leadership resources is a registration fee of $100/year for each church. Additional costs include student materials at approximately $30 per person. In addition there may be small costs for outreach materials depending on the activity level of the group. In many churches, these expenses can be covered out of the general church budget. In other churches, members can be charged a small fee to offset the cost of their materials.

Q: What does it take to run a successful Project: CALL program?

A: The most important factor is supportive church leadership with a vision for mobilizing and equipping members for ministry. Two team leaders are required, the class should consist of between four and twelve members, and an adequate location should be provided for the class.

Q: What kind of support is available to help ensure the program runs successfully?

A: Our online leadership resources include full week by week detailed instructions on how to operate every facet of the program and many other online resources: bulletin inserts, supplemental handouts, certificates, etc. There is also a special leaders forum for leaders to post questions and get feedback on problems in their team. No effort has been spared to ensure your leaders get every resource they need to succeed!

Q: What makes this program so effective?

A: Consistently, program participants have noted learning how to memorize Scripture, and the wonderful results that come with having God's Word in the heart as a powerful key to the program. Another key is the high level of accountability and exhortation built into the course. Others note the importance of combining Bible study with practical training. Individuals have long reported that our FAST Bible study programs offer some of the most life-changing training they have ever encountered.

Q: Does Project: CALL actually motivate members for ministry?

A: Throughout the course team members are not only given practical training, but regular assignments in outreach. And they are urged to develop their own lifestyle of evangelism. The goal of Project: CALL is to mobilize every class member for ministry by the time they complete the course.
